

PRIVACY POLICY – NEONOMICS AS

1. General

- 1.1. Neonomics is committed to protecting your individual rights and keeping your personal data safe. This privacy policy (the "Policy") applies when Neonomics AS, reg. no. 919 041 021, Ruseløkkveien 26, 0251 Oslo, Norway, ("Neonomics"), provides financial services for digital service providers that you access via the web or an app and describes the types of personal data we collect through our products and services ("Services"). Depending on the circumstances, Neonomics may act as a data controller or a data processor on behalf of another service provider. This Policy describes how we process personal data, who we share it with, your rights, and how you can contact us about our privacy practices. This Policy does not apply to third party websites, products, or services, even if they link to our Services or sites, and you should consider the privacy practices of such third parties carefully.
- 1.2. Neonomics is a Norwegian payment institution licensed by the Financial Supervisory Authority of Norway to provide payment initiation services ("PIS") and account information services ("AIS").
- 1.3. Depending on the Service, you may either allow us directly or allow us on behalf of your digital service provider, to connect to your bank(s) and gain access to relevant personal data related to your bank account(s), to enable the Service you have requested.
- 1.4. As stated in the Terms of Use for our different Services, by using our Services, you duly authorize Neonomics as a Payment Initiation Service Provider ("PISP") and / or as an Account Information Service Provider ("AISP") to access your online bank account(s) acting on instructions from you.
- 1.5. Data processed by Neonomics' Services will be processed in accordance with applicable privacy laws and regulations, such as the General Data Protection Regulation (the "GDPR").
- 1.6. Neonomics may provide additional products and services to businesses online in addition to the Services described in this Policy. Because the collection and use of personally identifiable information may vary among the Services, at any point where personal information is collected, Neonomics provides information that explains:
 - What information is being collected
 - How the information may be used
 - What choices you have regarding the collection and use of the information

2. When do we typically process your data?

- 2.1. Neonomics mainly processes your personal data in the following situations:
 - As legally responsible data controller: When Neonomics provides PIS as a designated PISP for a digital service provider to connect to your bank's system and account(s) to initiate payments directly from your bank account, acting on instructions from you to perform a payment, and when Neonomics provides AIS as a designated AISP for a digital service provider to provide account information from your bank, acting on instructions from you to perform an account insight service.
 - As a data processor: When Neonomics acts as a technical service provider for other designated PISPs.

3. Legal basis for processing your personal data

- 3.1. Performance of a contract: Neonomics processes your personal data when it is necessary for the performance of an agreement between you and us (the various Terms of Use for our Services). Neonomics collects the payment and/or account information generated from the banks and provides the payment and/or account information services that you have requested. We may also act as a data processor on behalf of another digital service provider, in order to fulfil an agreement you have entered into with this provider, please see item 5 below.
- 3.2. Consent: Neonomics processes your personal data in other cases upon your consent. An example of this is if you wish to send your account data from our services to a credit provider.
- 3.3. Compliance with law: Neonomics may process your personal data when it is necessary to comply with a legal requirement. Examples of processing due to legal obligations are:
 - Preventing, detecting, and investigating money laundering, terrorist financing, and fraud
 - Bookkeeping regulations
 - Reporting to tax authorities, police authorities, enforcements authorities, supervisory authorities
- 3.4. Legitimate interest: Neonomics processes personal data regarding for example so called "silent party data" based on legitimate interest. By "silent party data" we mean information such as recipients of your payments and joint account holders.

4. Purpose of processing of personal data

- 4.1. Neonomics processes personal data for these main purposes:
 - Customer administration: Neonomics will process your personal data to meet our obligations when executing services for you and according to service agreements with you.
 - Security: Neonomics has implemented technical and organisational security measures to protect your personal data. We always seek to ensure that your personal data is protected against loss, destruction, corruption, or unauthorised access. As part of this, we also anonymize some of your personal data.
 - Profiling: By "profiling" we mean automated processing of personal data for the purpose of evaluating characteristics associated with you. This includes, for example, analysing or predicting elements of your financial situation or transaction patterns. Neonomics only uses profiling for our Service called Account Insight. You will be informed that this Service entails profiling before any profiling is performed, and you are able to choose if you wish to use this Service or not.
 - Prevention and detection of criminal acts: Neonomics is permitted to process personal data for the purpose of preventing, detecting, investigating, and handling fraud and other criminal acts, such as money laundering.
 - Analysis and development of new services: In connection with the improvement of existing services or development of new ones, Neonomics may collect information for the purpose of analysing how you, as a customer, use our services. In some cases, we are permitted to process personal data for the legitimate purpose of analysing usage patterns to identify potential demand for new products and services, improving existing products and services and performing tests in connection with development.

5. What data does Neonomics process about you?

- 5.1. When you authorize Neonomics to access your bank and when a digital service provider uses our Services on your behalf, we will have access to your personal data. Depending on how you interact with us and for what purpose, we collect and process different types of personal data about you, but never more than is necessary to perform the specific service you have requested. For example, if you are making a payment and request Neonomics to fetch information from your bank, we will receive and use the following about your account(s): account number, account name, account balance, account type, the name of the account owner, but not transaction history. If you request the product Account Insight, we will also fetch transaction history, as this is necessary to perform this service.
- 5.2. For you to easier understand what type of personal data we may process about you, depending on what specific service you have requested, we have categorised the personal data into the following categories:
- Name
 - Account information
 - o IBAN/BBAN
 - o Account name and type
 - o Balance
 - o Currency
 - Transactions
 - o Transaction reference
 - o Transaction amount
 - o Transaction booking date
 - o Transaction value date
 - o Transaction value
 - o Transaction currency
 - Payment information, including recipients, free text you may have entered with the payment
 - Availability of funds
 - Device id / technical information and personal identification number necessary for identifying you
 - Payment tokens, meaning algorithmically generated numbers replacing your payment details, for the security of your data

6. Securing personal data

- 6.1. Personal data processed by Neonomics shall be processed and stored in a safe and secure manner. Neonomics has established and documented procedures and measures to ensure satisfactory data security regarding confidentiality, integrity, and accessibility in accordance with applicable laws and regulations.

7. Access to and storage of personal data

- 7.1. Neonomics can only store your personal data for as long as necessary to fulfil our purposes, which we have described in item 4 in this Policy. For example, if you are using our PIS, we will only store the personal data we collect and process in this regard until the transaction has been finalized and potential legal obligations are fulfilled (item 7.2. below).
- 7.2. We will subsequently delete or anonymize your personal data, unless we are required by law, or have a legitimate interest to keep storing the data. For example, Neonomics is required to store payment tokens for 5 years for the purpose of anti-money laundering and anti-terrorist financing. Further we have a legitimate interest to keep certain data for up till 13 years for the protection of Neonomics' legal interests, for example in the event of legal proceedings. We will regularly check whether we have any personal data which must be deleted. However, as we process your personal data for the purposes described in paragraph 4, the actual period for which the personal data is stored will vary depending on those specific purposes.
- 7.3. When authorizing Neonomics with access to your bank(s), we will by default have this access for 90 days. This is the standard legal solution, implemented by the banks under the second Payment Service Directive (the "PSD2"). Still, we will never access your account(s) after having completed your specifically initiated Service. It is only the bank(s) that may close the access during the 90 days, so please contact your (online) bank, if you wish you have this closed.

8. Third Parties

- 8.1. Neonomics will only disclose your personal data if:
 - We are entitled or obliged to under applicable laws and regulations
 - You have instructed us to, by consent or as part of an agreement

Neonomics may use data processors for the performance of the Service you are using. In these cases, we will enter into relevant agreements with the processor(s) ensuring your rights and obligations under the GDPR. The use of data processors is not legally considered as disclosure of data.

9. Transfer of personal data outside the EU / EEA

- 9.1. Neonomics does not transfer personal data outside the EU / EEA without ensuring all relevant legal and technical safeguards in accordance with applicable laws and regulations.

10. Your rights

- 10.1. You have the right to ask us to provide any personal data we have collected about you, to you. Should you wish to do so, please email us at privacy@neonomics.io to make a subject access request detailing:
